SEEDLESS WATERMELON SEED

Last year we introduced Seedless Watermelon to the trade. Although it was considered a novelty, some far sighted growers planted commercial crops with the most gratifying results. Reports from the West tell us that Seedless Watermelons sold at four times the price of ordinary ones. The supply of seed is limited, as it is very difficult to produce, so order your requirements at once.

Seedless Watermelon is a hybrid, a hand pollinated cross between a tetraploid and a deploid. T Sakata & Co.s' Dr. Terao tells us, because of its hybrid vigor, it is extremely resistant to diseases common to Watermelons. This point alone makes it worthy of attention.

Seedless Watermelon No. 4 (Not Striped)

10-15 lbs., round, flesh deep rose red. Very sweet, rind thin 3/4 inch. Vigorous grower.

Seedless Watermelon No. 13 (Green Striped)

15-20 lbs., round, flesh deep rose red. Very sweet, rind thin 3/4 inch. Vigorous grower.

Seedless Watermelon No. 15 (Green Striped)

10-15 lbs., round, creamy yellow flesh. Very sweet, rind thin 3/4 inch. Vigorous grower.

Price:— 1/4 lb. $35.00—Pound $110.00—f.o.b. Yokohama

About 8,000 seeds per pound.

F1 HYBRID VEGETABLE SEED

Hand Pollinated

In view of the increased use of hybrid vegetable seeds in this country, the following notes received from Japan will, we believe, prove of interest.

"Here in this country the first F1 Hybrid Egg Plant has been introduced some 25 years ago and ever since, numerous agricultural Experiment Stations took such F1 Hybrids up and as a result, many other F1 Hybrids on such vegetables as Tomatoes, Cucumbers, Watermelons, etc. have been produced. The improvement of these native vegetables along this line was very striking. So up to now, numbers of excellent F1 Hybrids of each one of the vegetables mentioned above have been introduced.

It is to be noted that special artistical training for pollination work is needed, especially on such vegetables as Tomatoes, and Egg Plants which bear flowers of small size and are so delicate that pistils are very easily harmed when flowers are emasculated and pollinated. The recent development and success of Hybrid Vegetable seed production on commercial scale can largely be attributed to the existence of well trained "Pollinators." These pollinators are mostly young girls and it requires generally at least two seasons to become a first class pollinator.

Thus, knowing the technics of F1 Hybridization, we are anxious to book orders for you out of your inbred stock seeds. Dr. H. Terao, a noted genetist and breeder is now in charge of such department and he knows his job through his 30 years of practical experience.

Being overpopulated in a small area, we can produce such F1 Hybrid seeds at amazingly low prices and moreover we can assure you of the privacy of your stock seeds as well as the accuracy of hand pollination. 35 years of reputation is in back of our business. Please entrust us with your 1951 requirements."

T. Sakata & Company have been producing F1 Hybrids for the trade since several years. If you have suitable parent stock, they can produce seed for you under the most carefully controlled conditions. Please write to us for further details.
